During April, the VA’s Statement by VA Secretary McDonough on the president’s FY 2022 budget request for Homeless Veteran Community Employment Services and American Jobs Act funding underscores the VA’s commitment to providing services to veterans. President Joe Biden recently announced this investment in expanded employment services offered by the Homeless Veteran Community Employment Services and American Jobs Act. Federal government. President Biden’s announcement illustrates that the VA and its partners have made significant progress in reducing homelessness among veterans since 2010, but we must do more, especially because the coronavirus pandemic further complicates the issue. During Sexual Assault Awareness Month, VA is highlighting the need for evidence-based interventions and strategies to integrate suicide prevention efforts into service operations for veterans. The graphic below, from the 2021-2025 HPO Strategic Plan, shows the Veterans Health Administration’s goal of achieving a systematic end to veteran homelessness.

Read more.

VA’s National Center on Homelessness among Veterans and Updates

VA’s National Center on Homelessness among Veterans recently released its report on the VA’s prevention efforts in the past 10 years. The report notes significant progress in reducing homelessness among veterans, but also identifies areas for improvement, particularly in addressing the needs of women veterans. The VA and its partners have made significant progress in reducing homelessness among veterans since 2010, but we must do more, especially because the coronavirus pandemic further complicates the issue. The VA is committed to ending veteran homelessness and is working closely with federal, state, and local governments to achieve this goal.

In this month’s newsletter, you’ll find success stories about veterans who have benefitted from the VA’s services. The VA and its partners have made significant progress in reducing homelessness among veterans since 2010, but we must do more, especially because the coronavirus pandemic further complicates the issue. The VA is committed to ending veteran homelessness and is working closely with federal, state, and local governments to achieve this goal.

Also, in this month’s newsletter, you’ll find information and resources for veteran homelessness. The VA is committed to ending veteran homelessness and is working closely with federal, state, and local governments to achieve this goal. You’ll find a link to the recording of this session below.

For Sexual Assault Awareness Month, VA is highlighting the need for evidence-based interventions and strategies to integrate suicide prevention efforts into service operations for veterans. The graphic below, from the 2021-2025 HPO Strategic Plan, shows the Veterans Health Administration’s goal of achieving a systematic end to veteran homelessness.

Read more.