An articulation agreement is a formal partnership between two (2) or more institutions of higher education. The agreement specifies that all or some credits from a particular technical diploma or degree will be accepted towards a specified four-year degree program/major of study is specified. The VA School of Radiologic Technology participates in an agreement that is formed between its hospital-based program and a four (4) year academic institution with the goal of creating a seamless transfer process for students. A student in the VA Program under this articulation agreement is currently enrolled in a four-year degree radiography program in one of the above Universities. In these circumstances, the VA School of Radiologic Technology is an independent two year academic and clinical program without compensation leading to certification as a radiologic technologist for students who are concurrently enrolled at an outside university/college leading to a baccalaureate degree.

Please see articulation agreement for which each of the above universities has signed. Agreements are 10 years in length. A copy specific to each school is available upon request.
