1001 Overview

This chapter establishes the Department of Veterans Affairs’ (VA) financial policies regarding revolving funds. Revolving funds are established by Congress to carry-out business operations funded by fees charged for goods or services provided. VA’s revolving funds are operated under two separate authorities effectively known as supply fund and the franchise fund. Although revolving funds do not receive appropriated funds to operate Congress must approve their annual budget.

Supply fund supports VA’s mission through the operation and maintenance of a supply system for the procurement of supplies, equipment, personal services and the repair and reclamation of used, spent or excess personal property. The primary customer for supply fund activities is VA, but the fund also has significant sales to other Federal agencies, including the Department of Defense (DOD) and the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). The statutory authority for the supply fund is contained in 38 U.S.C. 8121. Refer to Vol II Ch. 10B, Supply Fund for additional details.

Franchise fund supports VA’s mission by providing common business services such as financing, accounting, human resources, and training. The franchise fund began providing common administrative support services to VA and Other Government Agencies (OGAs) in 1997 on a fee-for-service basis. In 2006, under the FY 2006 Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs Appropriations Act, P.L. 109-114, permanent status was conferred upon the franchise fund. It is comprised of an administrative office, known as the Franchise Fund Oversight Office (FFO), and self-supporting lines of business called Enterprise Centers (ECs). Refer to Vol II Ch. 10A, Franchise Fund for additional details.

VA has established a Revolving Fund Board of Directors (RFBOD) made up of Administration and Staff Office participants to oversee the operation of the VA revolving funds and ensure resources are strategically utilized to serve the VA’s revolving funds mission.

Key points covered in this chapter, the RFBOD will:
- Function as the principal governance body overseeing the VA revolving fund;
- Approve the supply fund annual budget and franchise fund annual business plans;
- Hold quarterly meetings; and
- Approve rates for services and supplies furnished to customers.
