

VA health care worker receives COVID-19 vaccine

A shot of hope!

“ With the recent news of emergency authorization for two COVID-19 vaccines, I’ve thought a lot about the weight of history and the skepticism and distrust for the health care industry that lingers in the African American community. I’m glad I got my vaccination. I was hesitant to get vaccinated because there is so much conflicting information being talked about. Now I feel well-informed and confident that getting the vaccine is among the best ways to keep myself and my community safe. ”
